I. General Information

This Call for Convention Proposals includes information on how to submit the following:

- Programs for collaborative programming
- Presentations, posters, and programs for APA divisions
- Proposals for APA Continuing Education Workshops
- Proposals for the APA Film Festival

All program participants—whether members, nonmembers, or students—are expected to register for the meeting and pay the appropriate registration fees. Registration information for the 124th APA Annual Convention will be available in April 2016 on the APA website.

II. Procedures for Submitting Proposals

All proposals must be submitted online via the APA Call for Convention Proposals website, which will guide you through the submission process for your individual and/or symposium/other proposals. Only Internet Explorer 7.0+, Firefox 3.0+, Safari 3.0+, and Chrome 12.0+ are supported.

The APA Call for Convention Proposals website is integrated with MyAPA’s single sign-on. For all proposals, a MyAPA login account and password are required. On-screen instructions will guide you through logging in using your existing MyAPA... account, looking up your account and/or password, or creating an account if necessary. Your MyAPA login account will allow you to begin a proposal, save your work as you complete each screen of data, and return later if necessary to finish the submission process. The “save and return” feature is particularly helpful.

When a proposal has been submitted successfully, you will see a screen acknowledging your submission with a proposal ID. Please print that screen and save the proposal ID for future reference. If you do not receive a proposal ID at the end of your submission, please retry.

III. Collaborative Program Submission Process
(Deadline: October 15)

This is the third year APA is implementing an exciting addition to the convention: cross-cutting themes and enhanced integrative collaborative programming across divisions. The overarching goal is to highlight the unique role of APA as a unifying force in psychology.

• Only 1- or 2-hour proposals (see Section IV, Types of Submissions) that highlight collaborative ideas and integrative approaches will be considered.

• Individual presentations (paper/poster) will not be considered.

• At least two participants must be included.

• Innovative formats are encouraged.

• Proposals from members across all career stages, settings, and fields are encouraged.

• Programs integrating psychological science and practice are encouraged.

Submitters will need to identify a minimum of two divisions that are relevant to the proposal content and that would review the proposal (up to seven divisions may be identified). All of these divisions must evaluate the proposals for forwarding to the Central Programming Group (CPG). The deadline for submitting collaborative programming to divisions is October 15, 2015.

Proposals will be submitted through APA’s convention website.

Review criteria include broad appeal, importance of work, current and timely topic, originality and innovativeness, relevance to themes, interactive/creative format, scientifically/empirically based, and attention to diversity (i.e., the proposal has considered diversity in its findings/conclusions).
Although submissions can be on any psychological topic, special consideration will be given to proposals consistent with the following 2016 themes:

Social Justice in a Multicultural Society
Proposals may focus on domestic or international perspectives and the role of intersecting identities. Some topics include interventions to reduce educational disparities for low-income youth; meeting the needs of underserved, vulnerable, and victimized populations; sex trafficking; and the psychological factors involved in officer-related shootings.

The Circle of Science: Integrating Science, Practice, and Policy
Proposals may focus on the tradition and value of translational research in psychology and its implications for the public interest. Proposals can focus on human factors, organizational behavior, and environmental design, and topics may include recent basic research translated into successful applications and interventions and factors that facilitate uptake of research findings by practitioners and policymakers.

Advancing the Ethics of Psychology: Issues and Solutions
Proposals may focus on ethical issues and dilemmas facing the profession, psychologists, and organizations. Some topics include real-life scenarios and case examples; theoretical models for resolving ethical dilemmas; proposals for improving the APA Ethics Code; and perspectives on and proposed solutions in the wake of the “Hoffman Report.”

Cannabis: Concerns, Considerations, & Controversies
Proposals may focus on the impact of marijuana legalization at the individual and societal level and the pros and cons of these new policies. Some topics include the role of cannabis in the treatment of mental disorders; the effect of marijuana use on neurodevelopment; animal studies on the effect of cannabis on behavior and offspring; empirical studies of the psychological, behavioral, and social consequences of legalization itself (as opposed to use per se); and ideas for preparing psychologists to address challenges arising from legalization.

Targeting the Leading Preventable Causes of Death
Proposals submitted for this theme may consider how individual, social, and cultural factors contribute to leading preventable causes of death (e.g., hypertension, smoking tobacco, and obesity). Some topics include empirical work evaluating new approaches to altering health-related behaviors; the effect of stress on the body; critical evaluations of public programs aimed at promoting healthy lifestyles (e.g., Michelle Obama’s “Let’s Move” campaign); and the role of social systems and environmental settings in the incidence of diseases.

Educational & Professional Training Issues in Psychology

Proposals submitted for this theme may consider the evolving educational and training needs of psychologists. Possible topics include emerging techniques related to the teaching and learning of psychology, the emerging roles of psychologists in the schools, supervision models and supervisor competence, and the effect of and addressing the “internship crisis.”

The Future of Psychology: Advancing the Field in a Rapidly Changing World

Proposals submitted for this theme are encouraged to consider where the field is going in terms of science, practice, and its evolving role in social policy. Some topics of interest include new methodologies in novel fields (e.g., biomedicine, nanotechnology, robotics, genetics, and big data), innovative treatment modalities or services, and ways APA can positively effect change in public policy and society at large.

The CPG reserves the right to change titles of accepted proposals to enhance marketability.

In the event a proposal is not accepted for the collaborative programming, it will automatically be returned to the divisions in time for consideration under the division programming process.

The process for reviewing collaborative program proposals is as follows:

- Proposals are reviewed by all identified divisions, half of which must agree to forward the proposal to CPG for consideration; proposals not forwarded to CPG could be considered for division programs.

- If forwarded to CPG, the proposal is reviewed by CPG and accepted or rejected:
  - If rejected by CPG, the proposal is automatically returned to the identified divisions for consideration and inclusion in one of the collaborating division’s programs.
  - If the proposal is rejected, the division would send notification of rejection.
IV. Division Program Submission Process
(Deadline December 1)

Types of Submissions

Papers: Papers submitted to a division will be grouped together by the division program chairperson within paper sessions scheduled for either 50 minutes or 1 hour 50 minutes. Paper presentations will be allotted a minimum of 10 minutes for oral presentation. This format may provide only limited opportunity for fully presenting one’s work and for interacting with attendees. Time allotments for presentations shall be determined by the division’s program chairperson.

Posters: APA especially encourages poster submissions so that research findings, new ideas, innovations, and advances in the profession may be shared with as many individuals as possible. Poster sessions allow presenters and attendees to engage in extended discussions regarding the author’s presentation, which is in illustrated format on a poster board. Poster boards are 8’ high, with a surface of 4’ x 6’, and are placed in rows in a large hall. Presenters are asked to be at their assigned poster board during the entire length of the poster session. If your submission is accepted for presentation in a poster session, you will be directed to online instructions to assist you in preparing your materials in the required format.

Symposia: A symposium is a focused session in which multiple participants present their views about a common theme, issue, or question. The views may or may not be adversarial and may or may not be supported by brief mention of relevant data. The format of a symposium usually consists of an introduction to the topic by the chairperson to provide the audience with a background for the ensuing discussion. Participants then present their viewpoints, followed by interchange among participants and between the audience and participants. Often the symposium will end with an overview of the proceedings by the chairperson or a discussant. Most important, a symposium is not a paper-reading session. Participants should prepare presentations in advance so that the chairperson or discussant can prepare a coherent summary. Participants are encouraged to speak from notes; reading papers detracts from the spirit of the symposium. The chair or discussant should not give a separate presentation. Their role is to integrate, interpret, and highlight the essential issues raised by participants.

Conversation Hours: A conversation hour is an opportunity for informal discussion and exchange of ideas between the audience and usually one or two presenters. Presenters are chosen for their expertise in a particular area of current interest to members. The audience can ask questions and discuss relevant issues in more detail than is usual in other types of sessions.

Skill-Building Sessions: A skill-building session is a program based on teaching direct skills and application of theory to participants. Skill-building sessions combine theoretical and experiential approaches. Leaders typically offer practical experience to help participants increase their understanding and skills in a particular area of current interest in psychology.

Instructions for Individual Submissions (Papers and Posters)

- Title of presentation and subject index term (see Section X).

- Principal author (in instances of multiple authorship, the person whose name is listed first is expected to deliver the presentation): Name, highest educational degree, email and complete mailing address, cell and work telephone numbers, institution/business information (department, school, agency, or company, etc., city and state), membership status (including APAGS membership), and identification of sponsor, if any.

- Names of coauthors, their highest educational degree, and their institution/business information.

- Preference for presentation in a poster session or paper session.

- A 250–500-word abstract. The text of the abstract should include a statement of the problem, subjects used, procedure, results, and conclusions.

Instructions for Group Submissions (Symposia, Conversation Hours, Skill-Building Sessions)

- Type of program (e.g., symposium, discussion, skill-building session, conversation hour).

- Title of program and up to two subject index terms for the program (see Section X).

- Brief content description (to appear in online mobile versions of the Convention Program): 250 characters, including spaces.

- Chairperson: Name, highest educational degree, institution/business information (department, school, agency, company, etc., city and state), email and complete mailing address, and membership status (including APAGS membership).

- Participants, in order of presentation: Names, highest educational degree, institution/business information, email and complete mailing address, titles of contributions, and membership status (including APAGS membership).
• Discussants, in order of presentation (if any): Names, highest educational degree, institution/business information, email and complete mailing address, and membership status.

• A 300-word general summary and a 300-word summary of each participant’s contribution.

• All arrangements for the proposed session, including written acceptance by each participant, must be complete when the proposal for a fully organized program is submitted.

• Time limits: 50 minutes or 1 hour 50 minutes.

• Cosponsorship: When a presenter thinks a proposal is appropriate for cosponsorship by several divisions, the proposal should be sent to a primary division, with a list of appropriate divisions for possible cosponsorship. If the proposal is accepted, the program chairperson will make the necessary arrangements for cosponsorship.

Additional Instructions for All Proposals
• Any one individual may submit a total of two proposals for the convention.

• Limit titles to 90 characters including spaces, or 10 words or fewer.

• Indicate any accommodations for a physical disability that would facilitate your participation (e.g., ramp to head table, hand-held microphone, flexible microphone, table microphone, lavalier microphone) or scheduling limitations due to religious constraints.

• Reduce bias in language. All oral and written presentations should use unbiased language that avoids stereotypes, labeling, and pejorative comments. Presenters are encouraged to acknowledge diversity and use appropriate descriptions, including those for gender, sexual orientation, racial and ethnic identity, disabilities, and age. Participants are strongly reminded that the highest standard of courteous and respectful behavior is expected for both written and oral presentations, especially when sensitive and controversial topics may require balanced and varied perspectives and opinions of the presenters and the audience. Specific suggestions for using unbiased language are on pages 70–77 of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (6th ed.).
V. Continuing Education Sessions

The APA Office of Continuing Education in Psychology sponsors CE credit for selected sessions offered by APA divisions and governance groups at the convention. Our goals are to:

• provide APA members the opportunity to earn CE credit for selected sessions,

• work with APA divisions and governance groups to promote high-quality educational programming, and

• highlight some of the outstanding programming offered at the APA convention.

Note: CE sessions are different from CE workshops; see pp. 13–14 for information on CE workshop proposals.

What Is the Submission Process?
You will have an option on the Call for Convention Proposals submission form to select whether you would like your session submitted for CE review (Question 11). If you would like to submit your session for CE review, please be sure to review the APA Standards and Criteria for Approval of Sponsors of Continuing Education for Psychologists to make sure your session meets the definition for CE in psychology.

Provide no more than two learning objectives. Instructions for writing learning objectives are provided in the submission form. If your session is accepted by the division to which you submitted a proposal, it will be the decision of the division program chair to submit the session for CE review to the APA CE Office.

The CE Office will review each session. Decisions are made by mid-May each year. If your session is approved to offer CE credits, you will be notified by the division program chair.

Note: The number of sessions that will offer CE credit may be limited due to cost, space considerations, and scheduling of sessions; therefore, not all sessions submitted for CE credit will offer CE credit.

Who May Submit a Program?
Any APA member may submit a proposed program or individual presentation for consideration. It is not necessary to be a member of the division to which a proposal is submitted.

Psychologists who hold a PhD or PsyD (or equivalent) and who are members of a national psychology organization that holds membership in the International Union of Psychological Science (IUPS) are relieved of the requirement to find a sponsor for APA convention submissions. To have the sponsor requirement waived, please provide evidence of degree held and membership in a national psychology association that is a national member (or that is part of a coalition that constitutes the national member) of the IUPS.

Nonmember Participation
Individuals who are not members of APA or an association listed with the IUPS may submit a proposal if an APA member is a coauthor of the presentation or sponsors the proposal. An invitation from a division program committee to submit a proposal constitutes the required sponsorship of nonmember participants.

Invitations to nonmembers of APA are issued at the discretion of the divisions and their program chairpersons. Ultimately, the divisions are responsible for the nature and quality of their programs, and the only restrictions on programs are those that can be derived from the ethical principles of APA.

The person who invites or sponsors a nonmember to participate in the program is responsible for ensuring that these steps are followed:

- Clarify financial arrangements, if any, with the sponsoring division and the nonmember participant.
- Provide the nonmember participant with registration and hotel information. All nonmember participants are required to register and pay the convention registration fee. To ensure the availability of hotel rooms, this step must be done by May 1, 2016.
- Where protocol dictates, make arrangements for greeting the nonmember at the airport, escorting the individual to the session and meeting colleagues at a business meeting or social event.
- Some nonmembers (president, vice president, first lady, members of Congress, presidential appointees, high-ranking policy officials, etc.) require special arrangements that should be coordinated with APA. Persons considering such invitations must first check with the APA Convention Office before making any inquiries on availability or issuing any invitations to these individuals.

Eligibility of Chairpersons
All chairpersons of sessions must be APA members (members, fellows, or associates). Persons with an affiliate status, such as student, high school teacher, or international, may not serve as chairpersons.

Number of Submissions Allowed
An individual may submit a maximum of two proposals to be considered for the convention. Multiple submissions that are redundant or substantively similar are not permitted. Each proposal must be submitted to only one division for consideration.

Number of Participations Allowed
Individuals must limit themselves to two participations across all divisional programming. “Participation” refers to actually presenting a paper in a paper or poster session or serving as a presenter/panelist in a symposium/discussion/conversation hour that is listed in the formal program. Participants who violate this rule will be contacted by the APA Convention Office and asked to select only two.

Exemptions From the Participation Count:
- Chairs who do not present, symposium discussants, nonpresenting coauthors, division business meetings, division presidential addresses, division invited addresses, division awards ceremonies, APA conventionwide programming (APA plenary or governance sessions, APA presidential programming, APA or APF invited addresses, APA CE workshop leaders), or other APA or divisional nonprogram functions.

Disclosure of Conflicts of Interest
All presenters are expected to disclose relationships that could reasonably be viewed as creating a conflict of interest with respect to the content of their presentations. The general purpose of such disclosures is to allow the listener to make his or her own informed assessment of the presentation. Each presenter is ultimately responsible for determining whether he or she should disclose a given relationship. Appropriate methods of disclosure will vary based on the type of presentation involved. To determine appropriate methods, presenters can discuss approaches for providing disclosure with session organizers, who may, in turn, consult with APA staff in relevant areas for assistance.
Scheduling Presentations
Persons with accepted presentations or programs must participate at the time determined by APA. Persons with time constraints for religious reasons must include this information on the original submission form.

Previous or Simultaneous Submissions
Except by invitation, a presentation previously published or read at any state, regional, or divisional meeting may not be presented at the convention unless it is a substantial elaboration (additional findings, etc.) of a preliminary report. A presentation submitted to APA for consideration may not be submitted simultaneously for consideration at a regional, state, or divisional meeting.

Ownership and Use of Submitted Materials and Presentations
All rights, title, and interest in material submitted in connection with an approved program ("submitted material") will remain with the author(s). As a condition of the acceptance of the approved program, all author(s) agree to grant to APA a royalty-free, nonexclusive, worldwide perpetual license to use, reproduce, publicly display, distribute, and prepare derivative works of the submitted material in any medium, including electronic, online, and/or print format. This license shall also include electronic archiving of submitted material in the APA PsycEXTRA database or another archive service utilized by APA either now or in the future, unless the author(s) or a person authorized to submit on behalf of the author(s) decides not to permit electronic archiving of the program by clicking the “opt out of electronic archiving” box during the online submission process. APA divisions shall not be granted any rights hereunder.

By submitting material for use by APA, you represent and guarantee that you are either an author of the submitted material or a person authorized to act on the behalf of the author(s). If you are a coauthor or acting on behalf of a coauthor, you represent and guarantee that you have received permission from all authors for your submission of material on their behalf. You also represent and guarantee that the submitted material is an original work or authorship that has not been previously published and does not infringe any third party’s rights. You represent and guarantee that you have all necessary permissions to use any third-party materials incorporated into the submitted material, and you have the authority to make these representations and guarantees and grant the rights herein. Should any third party bring a claim against APA for its use of the submitted material, you agree to indemnify, defend, and hold APA harmless for any use of the submitted material set forth herein.

Further, as a condition of presenting or speaking at the APA Annual Convention, you agree to be recorded and/or videotaped and grant APA a royalty-free nonexclusive license to use, reproduce, publicly display, distribute, and prepare derivative works of the presentation in any medium, including electronic, online (including podcasts and streaming media), and/or print format. This license shall also include electronic archiving in the APA PsycEXTRA database or another archive service utilized by APA either now or in the future.

Electronic Archiving Services
APA is pleased to provide presenters at the 2016 convention with electronic archiving services for presentation abstracts and power point files. Upon acceptance of a presentation or program, APA will provide presenters with a web page address where they can update/upload abstracts and PowerPoint files through the conclusion of the 2016 convention.

PsycEXTRA: All accepted material will be automatically uploaded into PsycEXTRA, APA’s gray literature database that provides an archival record of presentations, unless the author(s) or a person authorized to submit on behalf of the author(s) decides not to permit electronic archiving by clicking the “opt out of electronic archiving” box during the online submission process. Inclusion in PsycEXTRA does not affect your rights to the submission. The collection of conference papers in this important database enables readers to trace the evolution of research.

Media Coverage: To encourage higher quality programs and better media coverage, acceptance of a proposal assumes that presenters will prepare advance texts of their presentations or a summary consisting of at least five pages. All presentations and their specific findings should not appear in the media until after the time of presentation. Presenters are strongly encouraged to email their papers to the APA Public Affairs Office by June 15. The top page should include your name, affiliation, address, business phone, email, and title of paper. Please add “Presented at 124th Annual Convention of the American Psychological Association at Denver, Colorado, August 2016,” and note day and time of presentation.
The APA Continuing Education Committee (CEC) is accepting workshop proposals that represent the lifelong learning needs of the APA membership for the APA convention in Denver, Colorado, August 4–7, 2016. During each convention, the APA CEC and the Office of Continuing Education in Psychology (CEP) offer approximately 70 workshops—half-day (4 hours) and full-day (7 hours)—on a range of topics (addictive behaviors, bipolar disorders, depression, disabilities, ethics, and psychotherapy treatment, among many others). An emphasis is placed on interactive workshops that actively engage participants in a variety of learning modes and facilitate the translation of new knowledge and skills into professional practices and services. Submit a CE workshop proposal and share your expertise with colleagues at this event.

The CEC seeks proposals that
- are relevant to psychological practice, education, and science;
- enable psychologists to keep pace with emerging issues and technologies; and
- allow psychologists to maintain, develop, and increase competencies to improve services to the public and enhance contributions to the profession.

The proposal process is a competitive one; we receive an average of 225 proposals each year for 70 spaces. You must demonstrate in the proposal that your workshop fits the definition of “CE in psychology” and meets the APA Standards and Criteria for Approval of Sponsors of Continuing Education for Psychologists. The workshop proposal form provides detailed information on how to meet the standards and criteria.

The CEC is committed to gender and ethnic diversity representation among workshop presenters, and all proposals should address these issues in the content and format of the workshop.

Why Should You Apply?
As a presenter, you have the opportunity to
- join a select group of professionals and share your knowledge with fellow psychologists from around the world;
- enhance your professional presentations skills;
- broaden your professional network;
- attend one complimentary CE workshop; and
- receive an honorarium of $175 per instructional hour, per workshop (i.e., $700 for a half-day workshop and $1,225 for a full-day workshop).
Scheduling
Accepted workshop proposals will be scheduled during the 4 days of the convention—Thursday, August 4, through Sunday, August 7, 2016. Presenters must be available to present their workshop on any given day.

Submission Process
The 2016 workshop proposal form will be available online on Tuesday, September 4, 2015. All proposals must be submitted through the online CE Proposal section of the convention programming system. Click the Call for CE Workshop Proposals link. Online instructions are provided to guide you through the process.

The proposal does not have to be completed in one sitting (i.e., you may start, save, and return to it at a later time). Review your proposal thoroughly before final submission. Once submitted, your proposal is final. Upon successful submission, a screen appears acknowledging your submission and providing you with a proposal ID. Print that screen and save the proposal ID for future reference.

Note: Some APA divisions offer preconvention CE workshops. These divisional workshops are separate from the CE workshops offered by the CEP Office and the CEC.

Deadline: Monday, November 9, 2015, 5:00 p.m. EST

The CE workshop proposal deadline falls earlier than the deadline for convention session proposals submitted to APA divisions. The CEC makes its workshop selections by mid-January.

VIII. Film Festival and Other Media Program Submissions
Deadline for Submissions: Friday, January 8, 2016

Submission Process
Who May Submit: APA members and commercial and educational film producers and distributors

Format for Presentations: DVDs

Film Festival entries will be submitted via a secure website hosted through Withoutabox, a subsidiary of IMDb. Detailed submission instructions will be available on the APA Convention website beginning December 4, 2015.

The APA Ad Hoc Committee on Films and Other Media seeks to broaden the APA Film Festival’s base by attracting filmmakers outside of the traditional psychological community who are creating media that artistically comment on psychological and social issues of the day. Awards for excellence will be given for films in three categories: feature length, shorts, and avant-garde.
Other Media Program Submissions
To obtain instructions for submitting proposals for “Other Media Programs” (e.g., a panel discussion on the impact of reality television on adolescents, including film clips) please contact the APA Convention Office or call 202-336-6020.

IX. Participation of Associated Psychological Organizations

Associated psychological organizations that would like to request a program time for a business meeting, an award presentation, or a social hour should communicate their requirements and detailed program plans to the Board of Convention Affairs. All events sponsored by an associated psychological organization must be approved by the Board of Convention Affairs for program content and the assignment of meeting space. Without such approval, the event will not have official convention status and will not be listed in the Convention Program.

Program time will not be made available to any political action committee or other political entity, nor will program time be used for any political activity or for the support or opposition of any political candidate.

To be considered by the Board of Convention Affairs, programs proposed by associated psychological organizations (those not listed in the APA Bylaws) should meet the following criteria:

• The group must be relevant to the science and practice of psychology.

• The session cannot involve any financial gain above actual expense of operation to the organizer or other participants.

• The session may not interfere with the orderly business of APA.

• The session shall be consistent with the APA Ethics Code, shall not reflect unfavorably on APA, and shall be subject to the policies and procedures of APA.

• All groups are limited to 2 hours of meeting time. Under extraordinary circumstances, the Board of Convention Affairs will entertain requests for additional time.

• APA will provide only the space, one microphone (where necessary), a lectern, and chairs. Additional needs, such as audiovisual equipment, food, and other services, must be paid for by the organization. APA will supply the name of its contractor for audiovisual equipment upon request.

• A credit card number or a check for the service charge, $50, payable to APA, should accompany the request for program time. If a request is not approved, the check will be returned.
X. Subject Index for Convention Program

Choosing Terms
Submitters choose the one term from the subject index list below that best fits the subject of the presentation or program. If the presentation or program covers more than one subject area, a second term may be chosen. In selecting the appropriate index term, the more specific one is preferable unless the broader, more general, term is clearly more appropriate.
