

THE HUMANISTIC PSYCHOLOGIST

Volume 30

Number 3

Fall 2002

A Letter to Readers
Arthur Lyons, 177

Part II:
PHILOSOPHICAL AND THEORETICAL
APPROACHES TO HUMANISTIC
PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSESSEMENT

Introduction
Constance T. Fischer, Guest Editor 178

Toward a Method of Neurophenomenological
Assessment and Intervention
Robert Garfield McInerney and Monica M. Walker 180

A Humanistic Psychoanalytic Approach to Rorschach Assessment
Paul M. Lerner 193

A Constructivist Perspective on the Science and Practice of Rorschach
Jonathan D. Raskin and Katy Sampson 208

Using Transpersonal Tests in Humanistic Psychological Assessment
Harris Friedman and Douglas A. MacDonald..... 222

SPECIAL SECTION: MAKING MEANING OF 9/11

Introduction
Lara Honos-Webb, Guest Editor..... 238

The Feeling of Realness: Evil and Meaning Making Arthur C. Bohart	238
Evolution of Consciousness in Response to Terrorist Attacks: Towards a Transpersonal Theory of Cultural Transformation Kathleen Wall and Olga Louchakova	251
The Lure of Excess Kirk J. Schneider	273
Defending Constructivist Ethics After September 11 Jonathan D. Raskin	281
Deconstructing 9/11: A Constructivist Commentary Robert A. Neimeyer	293