LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL, TRANSGENDER & INTERSEX CONCERNS

The International Network for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Intersex Issues (IPsyNet) is an organization with membership open to national, multinational, and international psychology associations.

VISION
The vision of the International Psychology Network for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Intersex Issues is that all psychological organizations are effective leaders in ensuring that all persons fully enjoy health and human rights, regardless of their sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression or sex characteristics, by incorporating the goals of celebrating and valuing the full range of human diversity, including diversity in gender, sexual orientation and sex, and into their structure, programs and activities.

MISSION
The mission of the International Psychology Network for Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Intersex Issues (IPsyNet) is to facilitate and support the contributions of psychological organizations to the global understanding of human sexual and gender diversity, to the health and well-being of people around the world who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, transsexual or intersex (LGBTI), and to the full enjoyment of human rights by people of all sexual orientations, gender expressions, gender identities and sex characteristics.
