Bringing Analytic Theory Back to the Big Tent of Psychology: Division 39’s Meeting at The American Psychological Association’s Annual Conference in DC, August 4-7th

It is our pleasure to welcome you to Washington DC for APA’s 119th Annual Conference. Appreciation of diversity is not only fundamental to psychoanalytic thinking, but it is also the focus of this year’s conference. This summer we are bringing analytic theory back into the big tent of psychology by bringing diverse Divisions within APA together. Never before has our division co-sponsored presentations with the division of social psychology and we are proud and excited to foster dialogues between psychologists studying psychoanalytic concepts in different ways.

On Friday night, we have partnered with Division 8 (social psychology) to bring two esteemed psychologists to APA who have written extensively on attachment theory, emotion regulation, and trauma (Friday 4-5:50) Dr. Mario Mikulincer is Professor of Psychology and Dean of the New School of Psychology at the Interdisciplinary Center (IDC) Herzlyia, Israel. He is a Fellow of the American Psychological Society and the Society for Personality and Social Psychology. Dr. Mikulincer is an associate editor for the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology (Division 8) and has written hundreds of papers and co-authored books that include Attachment in Adulthood: Structure, Dynamics, and Change and Dynamics of Romantic Love: Attachment, Caregiving, and Sex. Dr. Jurist is a Professor of Psychology and Director of the Ph.D. Program in Clinical Psychology at the City University of New York. Dr. Jurist is the Editor of Psychoanalytic Psychology (our Division 39 journal) and has co-authored many books including Mind to Mind: Infant Research, Neuroscience, and Psychoanalysis and Affect Regulation, Mentalization and the Development of the Self. Drs. Mikulincer and Jurist will address the impact of trauma on emotion regulation and the implications for clinical treatment.

On Saturday (10 – 11:50), we again partner with Division 8 to discuss the analytic concept of transference with leaders in the field. Drs. Susan Andersen (Division 8), Charles Gelso (Division 17 & 29), and Ken Levy (Division 12 & 29) will address current research and theory on transference that bridges social cognitive research and contemporary psychotherapy treatment interventions.

In addition to these invited presentations, we have our well-attended live clinical supervision session (Saturday 9-10:50), an innovative panel led by Dr. Huprich and Dr. Bornstein addressing the DSM-V and psychodynamic theory, research, and practice (Thursday 1-2:50), and a conversation hour addressing the integration of analytic psychotherapy and EMDR (Saturday 8-8:50). This year, we also have a premier movie screening and discussion of Revolutions of the Night: the Enigma of Henry Darger (Saturday 2-3:50).
And yet, there is more. In addition to the many presentations in the convention center, we have several wonderful papers that will be presented in our hospitality suite, committee meetings and social gatherings for those in different sections (i.e. Section VIII will have a conversation hour on Couples/Families Saturday 12-2), and a poster session with many exciting empirically based papers from graduate students and senior clinicians/researchers (Friday 11-12:50).

We hope that you will join us this summer and enjoy the many wonderful presentations and clinical training opportunities we have planned for you.

Warm regards from your DC chairs,

Cheri Marmarosh, Ph.D.
Joyce Lowenstein, Ph.D.
