

Chapter 1

1. What is an example of behaviorally silent learning?
2. What is the difference between learning and other mechanisms of behavior change?
3. What is the difference between learning and performance?
4. What is the definition of learning?
5. What are the main features of the fundamental learning experiment?
6. Why are control groups important in studies of learning?
7. What are the basic features of the general-process approach to learning?
8. What advantages do laboratory animals provide for the study of learning?