I wish you could have met my dad.

I miss him every day. He died because he took more medicine than the doctor told him to. He took more than was safe for his body. That’s called an overdose.

My dad was kind of like a puzzle.
He was made up of all different pieces.

One piece of my dad
was that he was a great storyteller.

He was very patient.
Like when he taught
me how to ride my bike
without training wheels.

"I knew you would get it,"
he told me.

He was so silly.

“Arrh, Arrh, Arrh!”
